

Sharon Taylor Sampson

Costume Designer

member, Costume Designers Guild, local 892

With an education and background in merchandising and retail sales, Sharon Sampson learned at an early age what is required to please the eye of the customer. She began her design career working in a costume shop and learned the entertainment field in depth. Experience in features, commercials and network TV has given Sharon the ability to function under pressure in any atmosphere and create outstanding results. As Executive Producer Dave Hackel remarked, "Sharon will respect your schedule and your budget; your actors will love and trust her, and you will have at least one department that you can cross off your list of things to worry about".
