DAN YARHI

Bio

I'm like a kid in a sand box! Just look at the great stuff I get to build!

Dan has been fortunate to work around the world: Europe, South East Asia, the United States and Canada on a variety of projects:

Dan Yarhi's Design Credits include : "BoonDock Saints All Saints Day", "Between Strangers", "Love Letters", Mario Puzo's "The Last Don", "Welcome Home", and "The Big Town", to name a few.

He Art Directed such high-profile projects as Three Men and a Baby, Dolores Claiborne, Cinderella Man, Blues Brothers 2000, Murder at 1600, The Repo Men and Taxi.

Working with such Directors as : Ron Howard ,Franklin Schaffner, Taylor Hackford, Sydney Pollack , Harold Becker, Stanley Donen , Michael Crichton, and Leonard Nemoy.

Among his television credits are the legendary S.C.T.V. show, CBC TV's Seeing Things; and more recently, the movies-of-the-week, A Holiday Romance, Second String and the mini-series, And Never Let Her Go. He was the art director on Emily, Emily, Jeeves Takes Charge, and The Nutcracker with Mikail Barishnikov, for PBS.

Born in Cairo of Italian and Sephardic parents he has a working knowledge of French, Italian, Spanish & some Arabic. Yarhi lived in Cyprus and Rome with his family before they emigrated to Canada in 1957.

While studying pre-law at the University of Toronto, his interest shifted to theatre, where he was designing Stage Sets, and Lighting. During the next five years, he became a "Founding Member" of Factory Lab , and The Tarragon Theatres. Dan also worked at Toronto Workshop Productions, and The National Arts Centre in Ottawa. He returned to Toronto in the mid seventies to design the revolving stage at the Ontario Place Forum Theatre, which led to a job in television, at CFTO . There he apprenticed as Art Director to Ben Edwards, a leading New York based designer, and was later given the opportunity to design his own shows.
